Please answer the following questions by referencing your experience with the applicant. Feel free to use additional pages to address other issues that speak to the applicant as a whole.

Has the Applicant displayed exceptional intellectual and creative ability including but not limited to analysis, logic, comprehension of complex and abstract matters, creative problem solving, and independent thinking?

Does the applicant have the necessary knowledge to pursue advanced studies in the field of Architecture and Design? Have they shown initiative to engage within the field? Have they explored or developed an individual insight within the field?

Please speak to the applicant's ability to communicate. Can they communicate clearly, effectively, in an organized manner in writing as well as verbally? Is the applicant able to engage in discourse and be receptive to other viewpoints?

The School of Architecture at Taliesin is an immersive experience that involves living, working, and learning within a community of students, artists, professors, and a wide range of professionals. Please address the applicant’s ability to be part of a community and draw upon everyday life tasks to challenge and inspire their work. How do you think the applicant can benefit this community?

Does the applicant possess the personal motivation and maturity to undertake an immersive and challenging course of study over the next few years? Can you speak to the applicant’s current long term goals? Have you seen the applicant challenge themselves in the past? Does the applicant have the ability to engage in self-reflection as well as place their experiences within larger contexts within their work?

Please use this space to tell us anything else about the applicant that you may feel is relevant to their admission to The School of Architecture at Taliesin.
